(From the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle ) Girls. BY MASTER L. D. COFFRAIN OF CHURCHVILLE, N. Y. [We understand that the nuther of the following is a small boy; and certainly he is in a fair way to rapidly recover from that severe evolution. ! O, the girls ! the beautiful girls, Composed of ribbons, laces and curls, Bows and bustles, bracelets and rings. And fifty thousand other things; With such delicate feet, and hands so white.

Magnificent hair, as dark as night, Intertwined with ribbons, flowers or pearls, All limp to make charming the beautiful girls. Were all the girls to be taken away, How would we spend the wearlsome day? Without the entire of the girls so fair, How could we endure the sorrow or care?

What would this earth, with its rocks and rills,

Its thousands of green and rocky hills,

Its gold and silver, diamonds and pearls, What sould it he without the girls ! How con a boy talk with a beautiful girl Without getting his head and brain in a whirl ! How can be converse with a creature so fair Without being charmed at once-then and there. Then, had to the girls ! the fair and the gay; Long may they continue in their happy way; And when we grow older, and take them for wives,

May they live to bless us all of our lives. VARIETY.

A BETTER CHARACTER .- Gail Hamilton says: "Adam had a better character than any bank president; and where the defaulting cashier orings only his own family to grief, Adam dragged down with him a whole world.

A SLIGHT DISTINCTION.—The difference between having a tooth properly drawn by a professional surgeon, and having it knocked out miscellaneously by a fall on the pavement, is only a slight distinction-one is dental, and the other accidental.

We have never heard of anything more beautiful than the story of a married woman whose will has been proved in England. She gave all her estate to Mr. Van Haurigh, her husband; irected her clothes to be sold to pay her funeral expenses, and added: "It is also my carnest wish that my darling busband should marry, ere long, a nice, pretty girl, who is a good housewife, and above all, to be careful that she is of

Perfectly Correct.—The Louisville Courier-PERFECTLY CORRECT.—The Louisville CourierJournal mewers a contributor as follows: "Your communication, Junius Junior," is declined.

9 Merchant Street, [025 ly] Honolulu, H. L. communication, 'Junius Junior,' is declined. It is quite too full of quotation marks and italics. You should not honor with quotation marks every stale, hackneyed sentence you choose to borrow. And you may often write half a day without finding the use for a single italic letter. Give your reader credit for some intelligence-for at least enough to know when a word needs to be emphasized without having the fact thrust down his throat by a tipsy squad of recling italics."

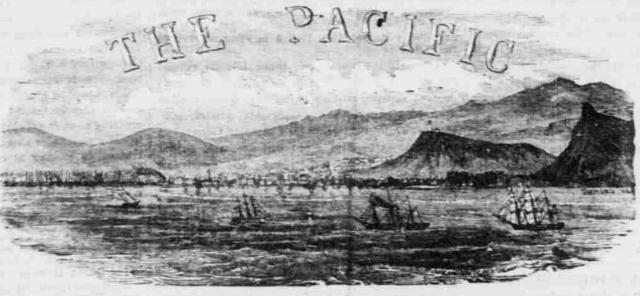

SHOULD BE FOLLOWED .- " Rules to govern people who are drowning " are published at length in a Milwaukee paper. This is a good idea, and should be followed by several similar codes, such as " Directions for ladies and gentlemen blown up in a steamboat; " " Guide for the victims of a railroad collision; " " System to be pursued by GERRED IL COMMISSION AGENTS. aeronauts who fall from their balloons;" " The whole duty of man after a nitro-glycerine explosion; " " Regulations to be followed by all persons struck by lightning; " and " Proper de-portment during a rapid descent from a six story

PRECOCIOUS CHILDREN .- A few days ago a girl aged 13 years, named Farley, and another about the same age, left Cohoes for a walk to a place a mile or two east of Cohoes. When about halfway they met a boy aged 15 years. Miss Farley at once fell in love with him and be with her. They approached each other, and, after a brief conversation, she resolved to accompany him to his father's farm, in the town of Watervliet, where they would be married. The parents of the girl became alarmed at the absence of their daughter, but they soon received a letter from her which said, "I will be home on Christmas day, and bring my husband with me."-Troy, N. Y., Whig.

Well, every way the sex is advancing. Here is Jerusha Bryan, of Queen's Run, Pa. She went on to a neighboring mountain to engage in the useful and honorable business of picking huckleberries-she with other dames and demoiselles. A huge panther in the most ungallant manner attacked her. Her sister huckleberry pickers fled for safety and for succor, but Jerusha seizing a huge pine-knot engaged the beast in battle. Long the contest was doubtful, but female bravery triumphed and soon the panther (6 feet and 10 inches long,) lay dead at the feet of Miss Bryan. She is now the acknowledged heroine of the neighborhood, but whether by this exploit she has advanced her matrimonial chances

A funny scene occured, the other night, in the Bowery Theatre, New York. The scene was a bed-room at midnight, with an old gentleman reading a letter. To the sound of slow music a villain entered the room, and with a cat-like tread approached the old man, clutching in his hand a glittering knife. He approached slowly, and the excitement among the gamins in the gallery became intense. - Just as the would-be murderer was about to make the deadly plunge at his unsuspecting victim, a boy, who was leaning with open mouth far over the railing of the gallery, sung out, with frantic earnestness: "Look behind you, guv'ner. There's a fellow goin' to stab yer! "The assassin dropped his knife and roared with the audience, and the curtain dropped without anybody being murdered.

Thousands of Families now using this Lamp testify " SITTING EPON A MAN" IN PERSIA.—The practice of "sitting upon a man," as it is called, universally prevails in Persia, and it is not easy to deal with it. Still, it may be dealt with; and Sir John M'Neill, a shrewd old Scotch diplomatist, who was once accredited to the Persian Court, contrived to get rid of a Persian who had to its scientific structure. tried to "sit" upon him by a rather clever device. At the New Year, which is kept as a great festival in Persia, religious mendicants go about, not so much asking for alms, as insisting upon a fixed sum. They generally tax a foreign ambassador rather highly, and one of them, a dervish, demanded an extravagant sum from Sir John M-Neill. The Scotch diplomatist offered to compromise with him for any reasonable amount, but his offer was refused; and, as he would not give more, the dervish proceeded to "sit" upon BEST WINDOW SHADE IN THE WORLD him. He established himself in Sir John's garden, just before his study windows; and every now and then during the day, and whenever he woke up at night, this dervish set up a horrible hullabaloo, and blew a cracked trumpet. Sir John, who did not like to have his rest disturbed in this way, determined to put a stop to the der-vish's tricks and eject him by force; but he was solemnly warned by the Persian authorities that it would be dangerous to lay hands upon the der-Its fixtures work to perfection, and never get out of order. We paint in every color desired; it is also, a perfect imitation of inside blinds W. G. NEEDHAM & CO., vish. "Get rid of him if you can," said they, laughing, as they are wont to do at a Minister's perplexity; "but do not touch him." "Very well," said Sir John, drily: and he sent for a bricklayer. . Build me a wall round that howlng beggar in my garden," said Sir John to the bricklayer, " and then roof it in." The dervish looked on composedly while the wall rose slowly round him, and made more noise than ever; but, when he perceived that they really meant to shut him up in the tomb ive, he jumped over the lowest part of the wal and rushed away like a maniac. Sir John wand robably the only European who ever got . M. Witter of a dervish.
